NO TRACE OF GIRL IN BRUDERHEIM

Provincial Police Searching District For Victim in Triple Tragedy.

Provincial detectives are still scouring the territory of Bruderheim for the body of Effie Wolansky, one of the principals in the murder and suicide tragedy which started the province several days ago. Inspector Schurer is in close touch by long distance phone and telegraph with his operative at Bruderheim and has taken complete charge from his office in the court house building of the search for the missing girl.

Effie's mother was killed by Steve Kulieski, a neighbor, who later committed suicide by hanging himself to a large tree near his farm house. It is thought that the affair was the outcome of the refusal of Effie's parents to consent to her marriage with Kulieski. All water in the district is being dragged for the girl's body.

Assistant Inspectors
OTTAWA, Aug. 6.—Joseph A. Milligan, and Edwin B. Lorimer have been appointed assistant inspectors of weights and measures in the weights and measures divisions of Regina.

ONLY ONE CASE IN POLICE COURT

Accused Had Supped Not Wisely But Too Well Of "Hard Stuff."

The shortest police court docket in three months came before Magistrate Barclay Saturday morning. It consisted of one case where here, August Olson, was formally charged "that he was found on the public streets in an intoxicated condition contrary to the provisions of the Alberta Temperance Act." August was found mooning around 9th street at 1 a.m. In spite of close examination by the magistrate Mr. Olson refused to say where he had come the liquor he had drunk beyond stating that it had given him by "a friend" who had given him for the coast.

"Would you tell the court where the liquor came from if you knew?" August was asked.

"Sure I would, Your Worship, but my friend didn't tell me."

"Five dollars and costs."

FOUND A PIANO IN HUN DUG-OUT; WAS COSY PLACE

Major Stuart, Brother of High Court Judge, Writes Of War.

Major Duncan Stuart, brother of Mr. Justice Stuart and Alex. Stuart, K.C., of this city, writing to the latter from the trenches, says that the British have a contempt for Fritz as a fighter but his artillery is still dangerous though nothing like ours.

"We have them beaten all right," he says, "that is we have the upper hand entirely in morale though they will fight hard owing to their iron discipline."

He gives an example of five Germans attacking one of the British runners, who got into a shell hole. He came out and killed three of them when the other two fell on their knees and he brought them in prisoners with apologies to his comrades who protested because he had not killed the whole five of them.

Speaking of the gas respirators he says it is not really very hard to breathe through them. Referring to trenches taken he mentions a piano found in one of them, a beautiful dug-out, paneled with stained pine and imitation leather with sleeping galleries, kitchen, etc. They were going to try to take the piano back with them.

Their barrage was so effective they suffered little in the forward movement. It was by the Hun's retaliation on the captured trenches that they suffered most.

Major Stuart was acting as liaison officer maintaining communications between different battalions. Major Stuart enlisted in a Middlesex battalion from London, Ont.

FOUR HORSES SOLD BY CITY FOR $630

PREMIER HOPES FORMATION OF UNION GOVT.

Replies To Delegation From The Toronto Win-The-War Convention.

Ottawa, Aug. 4.—Replying to the delegation from the win-the-war convention which today presented to the prime minister the resolutions passed at the Toronto gathering, Sir Robert Borden expressed the hope that a union government would soon be formed. He expressed the hope that the government would be "based upon a union of all persons, irrespective of party, race or creed," and that it would include all the leading elements of the Dominion, including the laboring and agricultural interests.

The Premier's Statement

Sir Robert said: "It is with the greatest satisfaction that I have listened to the resolutions you have just presented and I congratulate you upon the results of the convention which has recently assembled in Toronto. Canada could not have reached the achievement of the past three years if the heart of her people had not been profoundly stirred. You happen to present the resolutions on the anniversary of the day on which this world-wide conflict began three years ago. Then there were none who imagined the world would one day be divided into two camps, the one of which time that it has. As the conflict proceeded it became more and more evident that the full strength and power of our imperial commonwealth, throughout all its constituent nations, must be thrown into the balance if victory was to be assured. It became evident also that minor issues and party differences must be laid aside in order that the greatest effort might be gathered and exerted."

THROWS DOWN CHALLENGE TO HUN KAISER

Victory Must Be Complete Says Lloyd George At War Anniversary Meeting.

London, Aug. 4.—David Lloyd George, British premier, in the presence of a distinguished gathering representative of all parties which met this afternoon in Queen's hall to mark the third anniversary of the declaration of war, reiterated the aims for which the entente allies were fighting and indicated the only conditions under which they would consent to a suspension of hostilities with the central powers.

The meeting was under the auspices of the national war aims committee and was probably the greatest patriotic demonstration of the year. The expectation had been that the premier's speech would be a most important one.

The Marquis of Crewe, leader of the Liberal party in the house of lords was chosen to preside. He was supported by the Archbishop of Canterbury, 20 members of the government and one hundred members of parliament. Baron Sonnino, the Italian foreign minister, and Nikola Pachitch, the Serbian premier, were invited guests.

Needs of the Hour

"But no state can endure, no nation can survive unless its people are prepared to fight for their existence when the need does arise and in my judgment it has never been more true than in the world's history than at this moment."

"It has become more and more apparent during recent months that party differences must be set aside and forces united in the effort to win this war."

"My endeavors for that end during recent weeks have not been wholly made public but those who have an intimate knowledge of public affairs during that period are aware that no effort on my part has been wanting. It is appropriate on this occasion to make my fellow countrymen fully acquainted with my desire and intention. I hope that in the near future a government may be formed based upon a union of all persons, irrespective of party, race or creed, who believe that the struggle which we now wage is for the cause of liberty and justice, who realize that it involves the destiny of our dominion, of this empire and even of the world and who, putting aside all differences of minor significance, are prepared to join in a united and determined effort to throw into the conflict the full power and strength of this dominion. Only by very real and very special deeds can we win the war. Mere profession is hollow and futile. It is my desire, therefore, that not only shall both political parties be fully and fairly represented in government, but that it shall also include special representatives of the great agricultural interests and of labor."

No Efforts Wanting

"You have my pledge that no future efforts shall be wanting to consummate this great purpose. If it should fall, the responsibility will not be upon me nor upon my colleagues who, without exception, have given me the assurance that in this endeavor I have their full support and their complete approval."

The presence of the ladies at the convention and upon this delegation is another evidence of the splendid part which the women of Canada have taken in the national activity during the war and I welcome them most cordially."

"You have referred to the possibility of avoiding a general election. That can only be accomplished by a practically unanimous support of such a resolution in our parliament, otherwise the controversy as to such extension would be carried into the British parliament with embarrassment to them and to discredit to ourselves. I realize the extreme undesirability of an election during the war and I have done my utmost to avoid it. The responsibility must be on the shoulders of those who oppose the extension."

Campaign of Education

"A general election gives an opportunity for a campaign of education which may bring about a fuller realization of the realities of this war. Far removed from the scene of conflict, it is difficult for us to comprehend its character, its magnitude or the desolation which it has brought to some of the fairest portions of Europe. I hope that the campaign will be characterized by absence of passion and by moderation of statement. I hope, and more than that, I believe, the result will demonstrate the essential unity of our people and their strong and stern resolve that Canada shall not falter in her appointed task."

Following the interview with Sir Robert Borden the win-the-war delegates held a meeting and gave out the following unanimous statement:

"The members of the delegation wish it to be known that they are satisfied with the prime minister's reception of the views put forth by him. They were particularly impressed by the earnestness and sincerity of Sir Robert Borden's exposition of the steps he is taking to form a non-partisan union government. They are confident he will succeed, and that such a government will receive the undivided support of all the win-the-war elements throughout the Dominion."

Sir Robert Borden convinced the delegation that for constitutional reasons it is now impracticable to avoid a general election. The delegation, therefore, believe that a nation-wide campaign of education must at once be launched to demonstrate the essential unity of Canada for the utmost prosecution of the war."

Treat Chafing After the Bath by Applying Dr. Chase's Ointment

THIS rule has been adopted by many mothers and is becoming general because of the splendid results obtained. Pore-clogging powders have had their day. While they absorbed moisture, they have proved of absolutely no healing value. Permanent injury was often done to the skin by clogging the pores.

In contrast, Dr. Chase's Ointment is antiseptic, soothing and healing. It promptly destroys germs of disease, and therefore prevents the development of eczema or other skin diseases from which so many children suffer.

This ointment affords relief from chafing and skin irritation, and restores the soft, smooth, velvety texture of the skin. It is, therefore, a fine habit to use Dr. Chase's Ointment after the bath.

Single Handed, Kills Gun Crew, Reorganizes His Men, Then Falls

Australian Officer Gives No Hint of Fear and of Infinite Resource to Win the V.C.—New Zealand N.C.O. Equally Brave.

London, Aug. 4.—(via Reuter's Ottawa Agency)—Stories of extraordinary gallantry and heroism are related in the official gazette in connection with the latest Victoria Cross awards, which include six Imperial regiments, two Australian, one New Zealand and one Canadian. Besides the Canada award (the late Pte. John George Pattison, infantry, Calgary), an account of which has already been cable, the following are typical:

Captain R. C. Grieve, Australian: "During an attack in the face of heavy artillery and machine gun fire, after all his officers had been wounded and the company had suffered severe casualties, Grieve single-handed located two machine guns and, despite heavy fire from them, bombed and killed both gun crews. He then reorganized the remnants of the company, gained the original objective, and finally fell wounded."

Lance Corporal H. Frickleton, New Zealand: "The assault of his troops was checked by a heavy fire. He rushed forward at the head of his section, although wounded, into our own barrage, personally bombed and destroyed a machine gun, then attacked a second gun, killing the crew of 12, thereby saving his own and other units. His magnificent courage inspired the capture of the objective. Second Lieut. J. S. Dunville, late of Dragoons: "He set a magnificent example of courage and devotion to duty when in charge of a party destroying the enemy's fire entanglements, despite his being severely wounded, he took up an exposed protecting position, ensuring the success of a raid. He has since succumbed to wounds."

BRITISH MAKE QUICK REPLY TO HUN ATTACK

Man's Hill, in the Caubiers Wood. "The night was calm on the remainder of the front."

Russian Offensive.

PETROGRAD, Aug. 5.—In an offensive move east of Csernowitz, the Russians have taken more than 600 prisoners and three machine guns. The operations are virtually of Russian soil. In Bukovina between the Pruth and the Bystritsa, however, the Russians still are fighting before the Austro-Germans, who have taken several more towns.

The repulse of a strong Teutonic attack east of Kovel and the carrying out of raids on the German lines between Kovel and Chotin indicate that the Russian line here is in better shape to make a stand than in Bukovina. The assault in the Kovel area was made by seven companies of infantry, and the Russians drove the attackers back to their trenches.

ROME, Aug. 5.—Numerous airmen activities, during one of which a hostile seaplane was brought down by the Italian gunners, falling into the Adriatic. The seaplane was reported to have been shot down by Italian fighters. The text reads: "Along the whole front desultory artillery activity and minor patrol encounters are reported."

"During the night of Aug. 4, enemy aircraft carried out bombing raids on various inhabited centres on the plain between the Isonzo and the Piave. There were no casualties and on slight damage was done. An enemy seaplane was brought down by our anti-aircraft guns and fell into the River Po near Pon Lagoscuro. The airman was captured. In Albania, on the 4th, one of our scouting parties encountered a large patrol of Austrians and captured all of them."

Law Should Stop Sale of Elastic and Spring Trusses

Such Misery-Causing Makealifts Are the Ruptured Man's Worst Enemies

Instantly and automatically protects against every strain, so your rupture can't get worse. And in addition to constant holding without which you can never get well, even get better, just as a broken bone can't unless constantly held together—addition to that the Clute provides a real support which is the real cause of rupture.

Just how it does that—entirely automatically—is explained in the free book which the coupon below will bring you.

To Save You From Operation

The Clute has such a remarkable effect that it completely cures hundreds and hundreds of people whose cases seemed hopeless. It has been so thoroughly proved its merit that many physicians in all parts of the country now recommend it instead of a visit to the surgeon.

No Belt—No Leg-Straps—No Springs

Does away entirely with the cumbersome, leg-straps, and springs. People sit at ease as comfortable as their clothing. It is water-proof—will hold in the bath. A perspiration-proof and easily kept clean.

Get World's Greatest Rupture Book

There are so many wrong ideas about rupture that we have taken the time to put in a book all we learned during nearly half a century of experience. This remarkable book—cloth-bound, 16 pages—is full of facts never before in print.

It explains why depending on elastic spring trusses is about the worst thing you can do.

It explains the bungling "appliance methods," "plasters," "locks," etc.

It explains the dangers of operating and shows you why if you manage to get through it, you may have to keep on using a truss.

It tells all about the famous Clute Automatic Massaging Truss—how simple it is—how it costs constant expense—how it can be made or from bolting you in any way, no matter how hard you work or strain. It doesn't prove every claim why make—then it won't cost you a single penny.

See What It Does

We'll make you a guaranteed rupture holder—make it a thorough 60-day test. If it cannot be made to keep your rupture from coming out or from bolting you in any way, no matter how hard you work or strain, I'll prove every claim why make—then it won't cost you a single penny.

This guaranteed rupture holder—the famous Clute—is made on an absolutely new principle. It is far more than just a truss.

Tubes That Reduce Tire Costs

Good tubes—Goodyear Tubes—will help you get that lower-tire-cost-per-mile that offsets your high gasoline cost-per-mile.

For the tube has a more than superficial bearing on tire costs. It may make or break a casing.

Consider the slow leak—a common feature of poor tubes. It is a nuisance, necessitating constant inflating. But it is more serious. It causes under-inflation—which ruins casings.

If tire costs matter to you—if greater mileage is desirable—choose tubes carefully. Choose Goodyear Tubes because they are fair to your tires.

Lamination is a quality-giving process. By it we insure air-tightness of a greater degree than is otherwise possible.

Fine rubber is rolled out thin as paper so that it can be rigidly inspected for leak-causing flaws. Then these transparent, perfect sheets are built up, layer on layer, into a Goodyear Tube. To perfect it we vulcanize the valve patch in instead of sticking it on.

The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. of Canada, Limited

Goodyear Tubes, along with Goodyear Tires and Tire-Saver Accessories, are easy to get from Goodyear Service Station Dealers everywhere.

Rheumatism

Muscular and inflammatory—stiff and swollen joints, pains in the back, etc., promptly relieved. This potent, penetrating oil goes straight to the seat of the trouble, drives out the disease and establishes a normal condition. The standard remedy ready for rheumatism for a generation.

Social Side of City Life

PERSONALS, MEETINGS, CLUB ACTIVITIES, WEDDINGS AND SOCIAL EVENTS

Certainly the Pates were in favor of the garden party given under the auspices of the Red Cross society on Saturday afternoon and evening at the Mounted Police barracks garden and grounds on Grieson street. With threatening weather all morning and a cold wind blowing, the afternoon broke clear and comparatively warm and the sun shone brightly. Many gay clad women roamed about the beautiful green lawn and admired the lovely trees and flowers. Assistants in bright hued sport coats and sweaters flitted in and out of the house, which was loaned for the occasion, attending to the wants of those who enjoyed afternoon tea on the wide vine covered veranda or on the sward under the waving branches. Courteous, but wily, maidens besieged the guests to buy gorgeous bouquets of flowers, decidedly reasonable in price, according to the rich coloring and generous bunches of bloom. Mrs. Harry Ransford looked after the gate receipts. A fish pond offered many possibilities and was a charge of Mrs. G. May. Fortune telling was alluring, as always, and drew many both young and old, who would know their fate. Miss Jean Tiley looked after the golf putting on the green content, which was done by Miss Aloysias McKenny, who carried off a much envied box of home made sweets. Bridge was played by those who preferred this form of entertainment in the upper rooms of the house so kindly thrown open for the afternoon and evening. Tables were made ready and after playing eight hands and keeping the scores, the highest score, which was made by Mrs. Peter Gunn, was the winner of a pretty silver bon bon dish. Mrs. Ambrose Dickins managed this department in her usual capable manner. A candy booth artistically arranged near the gate on the lawn under the trees under the supervision of Mrs. Leonard Drummond and attracted those who were of a "sweet" nature. Mrs. R. M. Brown with lemonade, cake and nuts, had a table under the trees on the tennis court and was busy attending to the thirsty tennis players and other "dry" customers. In the dining room a tea table was arranged with potted plants, where Mrs. Woughton, Mrs. Duncan Smith and Miss Crosskill presided at the tea and coffee service. Mrs. Woughton and Mrs. Hummel worked untiringly to make the afternoon tea a success and their labors were deservedly rewarded, as everyone was warm in the praise of the dainty and delicious refreshments served. Two plants and a pipe were raffled during the afternoon and those desiring to "take a chance" were reminded to see Mrs. Wishart who was in charge. The tennis tournament so thoroughly and satisfactorily organized by Mrs. Beart was to a great many the event of the afternoon, and certainly the court presented a pretty and animated sight. Along the shady side of the courts long benches were filled with interested spectators and players. Two courts were in constant use from about three in the afternoon to seven-thirty in the evening, after which two exhibition games were played. It was with much enthusiasm that the games and sets proceeded. Thirty-five entered the tournament, and the best three games out of five were played to and all players had three sets. Mr.

Rowe and Miss Edgar won all their sets and received the prizes, which were a crown derby plate to Miss Edgar and a silver cigarette case to Mr. Rowe. This tournament proved so successful that another such was mentioned in aid of the Red Cross and to take place on the Patricia Square courts in the near future. The evening was spent in music and dancing under the direction of Mrs. Walter Laidlaw and a concert was an exceptionally delightful feature, which brought one of the happiest events of the summer season to a close.

TODAY'S INQUIRIES

How can the natural color of pickles be retained?
It is said the natural color of pickles can be retained if the saucapian in which they are cooked is lined with grape or cabbage leaves.

If jelly or marmalade after being poured into the glasses does not seem firm enough, what can be done to it? If jelly or marmalade after being poured into the glasses does not seem firm enough, place the glasses in the sun, cover with a pane of glass or glass lids and let them remain thus for two or three days.

Is it more correct to serve desert from the pantry or for the hostess to serve at the table?
It is more correct to have the maid pass the dessert to each person, that each may help himself, than for the hostess to serve it at the table.

What kind of glasses should be used for water at dinner?
Goblets of plain glass or slightly cut glass should be used for water at dinner.

What kind of receptacles for holding salt are most correct?
Salt-cellars are more correct than salt-shakers.

What can be added to cherries or rhubarb to produce jelly?
The white inner skin of orange or lemons can be added to cherries or rhubarb to produce a firmer jelly.

cut in small pieces, one carrot cut in cubes, one onion, one tomato and salt and pepper to taste. Cover and bake one hour, then add one cupful of peas and one cupful potato cubes which have been parboiled in boiling salted water. Again cover and bake for thirty minutes. (Mrs.) George McK. Many thanks, Mrs. McK for this recipe.

One Should Be Dignified
To The Editor of The Women's Page
Dear Madam—A young man came to call on me recently and after we had talked a while and I had played on the piano for him we went over and sat on the sofa together and talking again. He leaned forward and took my hand and wanted to hold it for a while, so I let him. He is a nice young man. I have known him about a month. He asked me last week if he might call and so I let him come that time. My sister said he was fresh and the next time he came he'd expect to kiss me if I let him hold my hand the first night he called. What do you think?
TIMID.

I think, dear, that your sister is quite right. A young man is not liable to be forward unless he sees that a girl will not allow it. This one evidently made a correct judgement, for you let him hold your hand almost on first acquaintance. Not that there is actual harm in the mere holding of a girl's hand, but it leads to familiarity, and such familiarities should only be permitted to the man you intend some day to marry.

Supper With Employer's Son
To The Editor of The Women's Page
Dear Madam—I have lately been employed in a business office and like my work very much. The son of the owner of the firm has been particularly nice to me and has asked me to go with him to supper and the theatre. His mother is a bit old-fashioned, so I do not want to consult her. Will you tell me if I may accept such an invitation?
EAGER.

From your signature, I am sure that you are eager to accept, and you really should not. In the first place, you ought not to mix business with pleasure, especially if the proffered pleasure comes from the son of your employer. Unless you have a good reason for not being present at the entertainment, you should treat him as a business acquaintance only. Mothers usually want their daughters to have a good time and do not interfere with their legitimate enjoyments.

Case of Beef
To The Editor of The Women's Page
Dear Madam—I am enclosing a recipe for caserole of beef, which is delicious if properly cooked. Cut cold roast beef into cubes (about four cupsful), put in a casserole dish and add the left-over gravy and some water, about one cupful of liquid all. Then add one-half cupful of celery and one-half cupful of celery. Bake in a hot oven for about 30 minutes. Serve hot with a sauce of cream and butter. An oil painting can be brightened by sponging with pure soap and lukewarm water, drying with a cloth, then applying sweet oil with a chamois skin. Do not attempt to varnish it. If the painting is in a bad condition, take it to a reliable art dealer, who will know how to restore it without injuring the texture.

Women Are Officers In Russian Regulars; Some Made Captives

Berlin, Aug. 3, via London, Aug. 4.—It is reported from several points on the eastern frontier that women in considerable numbers have been noticed in the retreating Russian armies, and Russian prisoners say that some women have even officers' ranks. One of the latter has now fallen into German hands.

Large numbers of Russian war prisoners are passing through so-called "Mausoleums" where they are cleaned them from vermin. Among those who passed through the Mausoleum of Oppeln was a good looking young lieutenant who persistently refused to undress and he treated in the presence of his comrades. Finally this officer confided to a physician that he was a woman.

MONDAY, AUGUST 6, 1917.

The profiteer's idea is that the public should fast while he preys.

The present proposal for "taking over" the Canadian Northern is that Mackenzie and Mann be allowed to "take over" some millions of public money in return for allowing the country to "take over" their debts.

The Government idea of conscripting wealth is to "conscript" anything up to sixty million dollars of public wealth into the hands of Mackenzie and Mann in exchange for stock that does not belong to them and which the Drayton-Ackworth commission says isn't worth anything.

It may have been inadvertent, but the Toronto Telegram for once stated the impartial truth when it said: "Coalition was not suggested as a means of shaping 'Canada's war policy.' That is why it failed, why it could not have been expected to do anything else but fail when proposed to men with self-respect and ability." It was proposed as a means of getting capable men to perpetuate the premiership of an incapable man.

No doubt it is very considerate to appoint another investigating body to show that the High Cost of Living Commission misrepresented the operations of certain wealthy and influential gentlemen who are accused of profiteering. But consideration of that sort comes high. If the High Cost of Living Commission cannot investigate it should be fired. If it can investigate the profiteers should be left to make out their own defence against its reports.

The Mayor has been calling attention to the danger of people getting panicky about paying taxes, one refusing to pay because others have not paid, fearing that in the event of a financial tie-up he would lose what he had paid while the others would escape paying to pay. That sort of misdirected caution is based on a fallacy. The delinquents would not escape in the event of the city falling under a receivership. Just what course the receiver would pursue no one has yet undertaken to tell us, but it may be taken as surety that he would get the money due the city or the property in respect of which it was owing. If anyone could expect protection from the courts it surely would be the one who had paid up, not the one who had failed to pay or refused to pay. And about the surest way to bring about the undesirable condition of a receivership is for people generally to dopt the attitude indicated. If everyone does what he can the city will probably get through. But whoever does less than that has no right to expect to get through, whether the city is saved from bankruptcy or not.

Some newspapers have been cultivating the notion that the appointment of the McLeod-Tellier commission was a sly scheme on the part of Sir Robert Borden to get rid of Hon. Robert Rogers—that it was understood that the commission would substantiate the finding of Judge Galt, and thus make it impossible for Mr. Rogers to remain in the cabinet. If Sir Robert had any such purpose in mind he has been double-crossed, or the commission has condemned Judge Galt and vindicated Mr. Rogers. And there really has been little or no ground for the theory that Sir Robert was playing false with his Minister of Public Works. All the evidence goes to show that Sir Robert considers Mr. Rogers a fit and proper man—the most fit and proper Conservative in Canada—to administer the great spending department of the Government. He did not have to take Mr. Rogers into the Government in the first place, and he has been free to put him out of it at any time without any danger of an uprising among his followers. But he is no longer free to oust Mr. Rogers. The finding of the commission has taken the initiative out of his hands. The Hon. Robert is in now to stay as long as Sir Robert stays if he wants to.

Current Comment

Our British League of Nations.
(From the London Daily Mail)

There is nothing perhaps more inspiring than the thought of the common devotion to great ideals and the common affection for the flag that has brought the manhood of the British Commonwealth (if we may borrow General Smuts' chosen word) from the ends of the earth to fight for freedom. When we reflect that General Smuts himself less than 20 years ago was in arms against us, and that he is here with us today a most honored adviser and a leader whom our troops have learned to follow with devotion, we have a measure of the progress made towards unity. There are those who would secure peace by a league of nations, living in friendship with one another and settling their differences peacefully. Surely the British Commonwealth is itself the image and adumbration of such a league, and, as such, abundantly worthy of even the cosmopolitan and pacifist's pride and support. This generation has nobly answered Carlyle's question: "Are you wise enough for so sublime a destiny?"

The Imperial Cabinet.

(From the Times)
People are beginning to talk of the imperial cabinet as though it were a final solution of the constitutional problem of the empire. That is a mistake. The whole question of the empire in practice it does not make very much difference while the war lasts. The prime minister's statement should have been warning enough against any error of the kind. He explained that "the experiment of constituting an imperial cabinet, in which India was represented, had been so far as it ought to be perpetuated." But he was careful to say that "we did not attempt to settle" the "constitutional developments" to which its establishment might lead. "The whole question of perfecting the mechanism for 'continuous consultation' about imperial and foreign affairs between the 'autonomous nations' of the empire is a question that will be reserved for the consideration of that special conference which will be summoned as soon as possible after the war to readjust the constitutional relations of the empire." The imperial cabinet, in other words, does not settle the constitutional problem; it prevents it from becoming an awkward obstacle while the war lasts.

Regulation Needed.

(From the Canadian Farmer, Toronto)
Consistent with the evidence produced by his investigation into the middleman's special preserve, for further government control and regulation of cold storage and the handling of food products in this country. Canadian Farm has taken the ground on previous occasions that some control was necessary in order to establish such confidence on the part of the producer in the marketing and handling of food products as would make for increased production. That confidence cannot be secured if things are to continue as they are. The farmer must be made to feel that he is getting a fair share of what the consumer has to pay for what he produces, or he will bend his whole energies toward increasing production. Where one firm alone has had a margin of five million dollars in handling a single commodity—that of bacon, for instance—then the farmer believes that he is not getting a fair share of the high prices paid by the consumer. If the consumer is content to pay the high prices ruling, which, by the way, are higher than the consumer in any of the large cities in the United States pays for the same quality and class of food, then the farmer should have a larger share of the retail value. One can at present time live cheaper in big cities like Chicago and New York than in Toronto, for example. And in this connection, too, it will be found that the farmer in the United States, where average prices to the consumer are lower than in Canada, gets as much for what he has to sell as if not more, than the Canadian farmer does. The government of the United States is taking drastic action to prevent speculation in necessities, and our government should take similar action. There is more need for it here than to the south of the line, as anyone will find who has made a study of conditions in both countries. The kind of thing which this country has had to submit to since the beginning of the war should not be allowed to continue.

1,200 VETERANS AT QUEBEC.

Quebec, Aug. 4.—With a batch of over 500 invalided soldiers and officers arrived here from overseas yesterday. Quebec on Sunday will have a gathering of some twelve hundred returned men, for another lot of them is coming from St. John on Sunday.

MY AMERICAN COUSIN

Because they speak the tongue that's mine;
Rich in the treasure that belongs
To them as well as me, and twine
Their heart-strings in our English songs,
I knew they'd scorn these German threats
And sham regrets.

Because their country's name is scolded
With England's own, must be unrolled
In Freedom still, they had to hate
The thought of bowing down before
A lord of war.

And now they'll lavish in the strife
The gold they've scorned to love too well.

And fleets to bring the food that's life,
And guns of death, and steel and shell;

Defeat or triumph, stand or fall,
They share their all.

They're out for business; now's their day;
They took their time, but finished right.

The heat got slowly comes to stay;
Patient peace means firm in fight.

And so their country still shall be
Land of the Free.

—London Punch.

SHALL THE PEOPLE RULE?

Dr. Clark, M.P. for Red Deer, Alberta, was elected to Parliament as a firm adherent and talented exponent of Liberal principles. During a period of years he followed Sir Wilfrid Laurier as the Liberal leader of Canada. On Friday night, during the course of a public address, he justified his recent attacks upon Sir Wilfrid Laurier on the ground that his leader had left him, which being interpreted means, if it means anything—that Sir Wilfrid Laurier had been untrue to Liberal principles while he, Clark, still stood by those principles.

These be strenuous times. The world-old fight between Democracy and Autocracy is on—and on hard. Thirty thousand of the men of Canada have already laid down their lives in the cause of liberty. While our soldiers were fighting in Europe to preserve the right of the people to rule, a majority of the Parliament of Canada, under the leadership and direction of Sir Robert Borden, voted that the people of Canada should not rule themselves—that they should continue to be ruled by a self-elected Parliament. A minority, under the leadership and direction of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, voted that the Canadian people should rule themselves through a Parliament duly elected as provided by the Constitution of the country. The line of cleavage between the principles of "Divine Right" and of "Popular Right"—between the fundamental principles of Conservative and Liberal—was never more clearly defined. The time, the place, the occasion, the leadership, were all beyond question or argument. The man who voted with Laurier on that occasion lined up for Liberalism and the man who voted with Borden, equally lined up for Conservatism; whatever his previous record was or whatever his future course may be. The division list shows that on that historic occasion, Dr. Clark lined up behind Borden and against Laurier. Whatever his grievance against Sir Wilfrid Laurier may be, he cannot justify his numerous and venomous attacks upon him by calling in question his truth to Liberal principles, whether in good or evil report.

When submitted to the acid test, Laurier stood true and Clark did not.

With The Humorists

The Hatcyn Days.

She: When we go anywhere now we have to take the street car. Before our marriage you always called a taxi.

He: Yes; that's the reason we have to go in the street car now.

A Rise in Food.

Officer: Is that soup ready, Jones?

Officer's Servant: No, sir, the stove went out, sir.

Officer: Went out? Then why don't you light it again?

Officer's Servant: Cos it went out by the roof, sir.

A Near Thing.

Passenger: I suppose you've had some hairbreadth escapes during your seafaring career.

Mate: Yes, indeed; I was nearly drowned once.

Passenger: How did it occur?

Mate: I went to sleep in the bath and forgot to turn off the water.

Still Wanted to Talk.

"Going far?" asked the talkative one.

"To London," roared the traveller.

"I'm in the jewelry line; forty-six and married; name, Lorat Brown; one daughter, nineteen years old, in the civil service, gets thirty shillings a week; father died last July; mother is still living; one of my nieces has red hair; our maid has left, but we've got another one. Anything else?"

The talkative one thought for a moment.

"What oil do you use on your tongue?" he inquired.

Reason for Wrath.

Husband: Why are you so angry at the doctor?

Wife: When I told him I had a terrible tired feeling, he told me to show him my tongue.

Sticky Weather.

"Sticky weather," said the boy who was thinking of fishing. "That's right," responded his dad. "Stick to business, son."

Not For Kindergarten.

He—I offer you my heart's first fresh young affections. She—George, I have often thought I'd like to teach—but I never cared for kindergarten work.—Judge.

Going Down Fast.

"The last time I saw Jones he looked to be going down hill very fast."

"Has he fallen in bad health?" "No; he was coasting on his wheel."—Baltimore American.

Kindred Feeling.

"I once knew a man who went hungry in order to buy food for his horse."

"I can understand his sentiments. Many's the time I have cut down on meat and potatoes in order to buy gasoline."—Washington Star.

Not Home Yet.

"Is your husband up yet?" inquired the early morning caller. "I guess he is," replied the stern woman at the door. "Well, I'd like to say a few words to him—"

"No would I. He hasn't come home yet."—Boston Transcript.

A Bishop was travelling in a mining country and encountered an old man turning a windlass which hauled up ore out of a shaft. It was his work to do this all day long. His hat was off, and the sun was pouring down on his unprotected head.

"Don't you know the sun will injure your brain if you expose it like that?" said the Bishop.

The man wiped the sweat off his forehead and looked at the clergyman. "Do you think I'd be doing this all day if I had any brains?" he said.

ANSWERS

This department does not pretend to be infallible. It will endeavor, however, to answer queries sent to it by readers of The Bulletin to the best of its ability, reserving the right to refuse to answer questions of a purely personal or of a purely local nature.

To receive attention, every inquiry must bear the name and address of the querist. This information is not wanted for publication but as an evidence of good faith.

To the Bulletin: Could you please tell me: (1) If child born to the second wife of John Jacob Astor (shortly after his death) was a boy or a girl? (2) What was his name? (3) Did the second wife of John Jacob Astor marry again? (4) Was the Titanic going to or coming from England?

John Jacob Astor, posthumous son of John Jacob Astor, and his second wife, Madeline Force Astor, was born in 1912. The Titanic was bound from Liverpool to New York. Madeline Force Astor married William Dick in 1916.

To the Bulletin:—What does the word anaesthesia mean, and when was chloroform invented?

Inquisitive.

Anaesthesia is a word first employed by Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes in early times it was known that pressure on the carotid arteries on each side of the neck could bring about temporary unconsciousness, and resuscitation was the art of garroting grew out of this generalized knowledge. It was not until the early part of the Nineteenth Century that the discovery of the general anaesthetics, nitrous oxide, ether and chloroform, was made, and still later the wonderful developments in the art of local anaesthesia by the use of cocaine and its congeners. The method of inducing anaesthesia without loss of consciousness has some very advantageous features in surgical procedure, and was first practiced by a New York physician, Dr. J. Leonard Corning. General anaesthesia is usually brought about by the inhalation of some vapor. Nitrous oxide gas, chloroform, ether, ethyl chloride, etc., are the most frequently employed, especially the three former. Nitrous oxide was the first of this series to be suggested. It was made by Dr. Humphrey Davy in 1800, but was not used in practice until about 1844, when Dr. H. Wells, an American dentist, employed it in the extraction of teeth. The anaesthetic properties of ether were known for some years before and put to practical use. As to its first use there is much controversy. It was first used by Crawford W. Long of Georgia first used either a general anaesthetic, but to W. T. G. Morton, a dentist of Boston, should be given the credit for demonstrating its value and its use in the medical profession. Doctor Long did his first operation under ether, March 20, 1842, for the removal of a tumor of the jaw. He reported his experiments to the Georgia State Medical society in 1842. Morton's work was begun in 1846, September 30, when he extracted a tooth while the patient was under a chloroform. He subsequently demonstrated his method at the Massachusetts general hospital, and then patented his product under the name of Letheon. The following year Sir J. W. Simpson of Edinburgh announced the discovery of the anaesthetic properties of chloroform and demonstrated its value in delicate operations. At the present time all three of these anaesthetics are extensively employed in Europe chloroform is preferred; in this country ether is used more often.

BULGARIAN GENERAL IS DEAD

Amsterdam, Aug. 4, via London.—Gen. Kolev, commander-in-chief of the cavalry forces of the Bulgarian army, died suddenly yesterday in a sanatorium at Vienna. Although dead, apparently was due to blood poisoning the police of the Austrian capital are reported to be investigating it.

MICHAELIS BACK IN BERLIN.

Copenhagen, Aug. 4.—The Berlin correspondent of the Politiken says Chancellor Michaelis has returned from Vienna, conferred with several ministers and the cabinet will confer with the emperor tomorrow.

WAR PUTS PLAIN

Food on Rich Tables.

"Economy puddings" and "economy meat pies" are the latest form in which food is served from certain fashionable kitchens in Canada. The idea in making these foodstuffs is to avoid any ingredient approaching the class of a luxury which can be replaced with a simple material. More and more, the custom is growing of serving these plain foods at fashionable dinners.

While this custom of serving plain foods on prosperous tables did not originate in Canada, in this country the availability of luxurious food in comparative abundance makes the habit a particularly happy one. It is such things as this, small enough in themselves, which the soldier home from the front appreciates.

"The war is doing my patients good," said a doctor recently who has a large practice amongst wealthy city people.

"The dyspeptic who never was able to resist rich foods is getting his chance now," continued the medical man. A-23.

ROOT AND PARTY BACK FROM VISIT TO NEW REPUBLIC

Stable Government Will Be Evolved, But It Will Take Time.

A Pacific Port, Aug. 4.—The American mission to Russia, headed by Elihu Root, landed here late last night. No official statement on the work of the mission in Russia or on the report that the mission will make on its return to Washington could be obtained. Mr. Root, acting as spokesman, declared that he had nothing to say beyond the fact that the party had been hospitably received in every Russian city that they visited.

From the Russian revolution will be evolved a stable government, according to James Duncan, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor. Its establishment is retarded, he declared, by the radical social reformers, of the character of Industrial Workers of the World, who have returned to Russia after having lived a while in America. The success of the revolution, Mr. Duncan attributed to the workmen of Russia, by whom the propaganda of freedom was first carried to the peasant class at the time of the original duma in 1905.

Charles Edward Russell declared that the task of new Russia was greatly handicapped by German influence and the careless activity of the German propagandists.

"Most of the trouble, however, has been caused by Russians naturalized as Americans, who have returned to Russia since the outbreak of the revolution," he said, and added that Russians from the United States spread the report throughout the country that America had entered the war from sordid reasons.

Writes the Times

CONFIRMING STORY OF JULY 5 PARLEY

Former American Special Agent At Porte Knows the Facts.

London, August 4.—Louis Enstein, former special agent of the American embassy at Constantinople, writes the Times supporting the story of the German conference July 5, 1914, preceding the declaration of war. He says that Marquis Garroni, the Italian ambassador at Constantinople, told him that on July 15 German ambassador Wangenheim, who had returned to Constantinople from Berlin the previous day, informed him of the conference at which Herr Wangenheim was present and that the war was decided upon at the conference.

The Austrian Archduke's murder was to be the pretext and the plan was to present an ultimatum to Serbia which she could not accept and from which war would ensue in 48 hours.

PRO-GERMAN GREEKS ACTIVE.

London, Aug. 4.—A Reuter dispatch from Athens says the proclamation of a state of siege in Attica was due to the discovery of the general anaesthetics, nitrous oxide, ether and chloroform, was made, and still later the wonderful developments in the art of local anaesthesia by the use of cocaine and its congeners. The method of inducing anaesthesia without loss of consciousness has some very advantageous features in surgical procedure, and was first practiced by a New York physician, Dr. J. Leonard Corning. ANOTHER MINE DISASTER

Evansville, Ind., Aug. 4.—All but 20 of the 200 of the iron miners in the West Kentucky Coal company's mine at Clay, Ky., had been brought to the surface. Six men are known to be dead.

SOCIALISTS VOTES IN BRITAIN AND FRANCE

London, Aug. 4.—The Times says: "The management committee of the general federation of trades unions met Thursday."

Under the presidency of J. O'Grady, M.P., and decided not to depart from the decision of the annual general meeting, not to meet representatives of enemy countries in conference until France and Belgium had been evacuated and promise of reparation made."

Paris, Aug. 4.—Socialist deputies in the chamber decided last night by a vote of 56 to 9 that Albert Thomas, minister of munitions and member of the war council, shall continue as a member of the government.

RAILWAY BARGAIN BRINGS COMMENT IN LONDON PRESS

This Event Inevitable in View of the Large Assistance Given.

London, Aug. 4.—Touching on the Canadian Northern purchase the Financial News says it will apparently be a bargain between the government and the Mackenzie and Mann group, and if the conditions remain as before the investing public will have little concern with the transaction save so far as it may improve the stability of Canadian Northern issues.

That the Grand Trunk Pacific must revert to the government, in view of the liberal assistance given, is the Financial News says, inevitable and justice. That justice is to be tempered with consideration for the Grand Trunk may be inferred from Sir Thomas White's statement.

The Times says Grand Trunk stockholders will be ungraciously glad that the government rejected the proposal of the majority report that an absorption of the Grand Trunk Pacific should be conditional upon the surrender of the Grand Trunk on semi-confiscatory terms.

Adventures of Uncle Wiggily

Uncle Wiggily and the Tortoise.

Copyright, 1917, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Uncle Wiggily Longears, the rabbit gentleman, was out walking in the woods one day, looking for an adventure, when he saw a box tortoise slowly crawling along on the path under the green ferns.

"Oh dear!" sighed the box tortoise, which he doesn't live in mud, and he can shut himself up in his shell, by drawing in his legs, head and tail, until he looks exactly as though he was in a box. "Oh, dear! I'm afraid I'll never get there!"

"Get where?" asked Uncle Wiggily kindly.

"To the three and four cent store," answered the box tortoise. "My wife sent me to get her a pair of diamond earrings. There's a special sale of them at the store, under five cents marked down to four and a half cents, and she's very anxious to have me get her some."

"But I'm afraid I'll not get there until they're all gone. I started two weeks ago, and I just asked a snail how much farther it was and he said about a month's journey farther on. So I'm afraid I'll be too late."

"I should think you would be, travelling as slowly as you go," said Uncle Wiggily with a kind laugh. "I think the carrying sale must be over long ago. The three and four cent store is not far from here, however. But with your short legs it will take you a long while. However, I'll carry you there in my back nose."

And, picking the box tortoise up in his paws away hopped Uncle Wiggily, and soon he and his new friend were at the store.

"Yes, we have just one pair of the diamond clam-shell earrings left," said the little mouse girl clerk behind the counter. "You may have them for three cents," and she gave them to the box tortoise gentleman, who was much obliged.

"Now I'll go home to my wife, who will be much pleased," said he. "But I'll be about six weeks getting back, I'm afraid."

"Yes, and by that time those earrings may be out of style," laughed Uncle Wiggily. "You had much better let me carry you home. But, as I have to go to the store for my muskrat lady housekeeper, Nurse Jane Fussy, and carry to my paws some buttercup sauce and sunflower cakes, I'll have to put you in my tall silk hat, and carry you on my head."

"I shan't mind that in the least," spoke the box tortoise. "Thank you kindly, I'll go to sleep on the way back," and he did, using the diamond clam-shell earrings for a pillow.

Uncle Wiggily went to the store for Nurse Jane, and then, with his paws full of the things he had bought, he started on his hollow stump bungalow, carrying the box tortoise in his tall silk hat on his head.

Over seas there came a pleading. Help a nation in distress. And we gave our glorious ladies. Honor bade us do no less. For no gallant son of Britain To a foreign voice shall bend. And no Englishman is silent To the sacred call of friend.

REFRAIN—Keep the home, etc.

Letters to Uncle Tom

Have Fine Garden. Dear Uncle Tom—As I have not written to the club for a long time I will write a few lines to see how the club is getting along. We have a lovely garden and so many potatoes, we have been having new potatoes for some time. We have a nice field of wheat. It has been in head for about four weeks now. I told you once before about having two little rabbits. I lost one of them. I am so sorry for I liked them so well. There is a nest of little wild ducks right down at the creek near the school. I like going to school very much.

ROSA MAE ARNOLD. Hardisty, July 28.

Was at Exhibition. Dear Uncle Tom—This is my fifth letter to your club. I would have written earlier but I was away spending holidays with a friend of mine. I am going away this week again. I went to the Edmonton exhibition one day and had a fine time. Well, I guess I will stop, hoping to see my letter in print.

ELODIA BOLTON. Bruderheim, July 31.

Has Been Away. Dear Uncle Tom—I am writing to you, I have a horse named Jerry. I like him very much. I have been away for a week. I wish to see my letter in print. I didn't see the last one. Will you please send me another badge for it is broken. I must close now. Wishing your club a merry good time.

ALVIN JOHNSON. Works Linotype. Dear Uncle Tom—Please excuse me for not writing sooner. The linotype is here and is running pretty good. I have sent some type on it already. I have been working in the office all the holidays, but as I have a few minutes free I have written now. I will write a larger letter soon. School does not start until September. I am quite well and hope all the members of the club are also. I have lots of things to tell you, but have no time now. I would like to have some member write something in printing or electricity correspond with me.

LEONARD DALBERTANSON, Jr. Chauvin, July 27.

Today We Celebrate. Physician's Prognosis Responsible for Hanoverian Dynasty in England. That George V. now sits on the throne of England is due in no small measure to the prognosis of a certain nineteenth century physician, Dr. Richard Mead, who was born in London 244 years ago today, August 11, 1673.

When George Anne, last of the Stuarts, was seized with a fatal illness a little over two centuries ago, in 1714, Dr. Mead was called in consultation. After an examination of the stricken queen he found that she was near death's door, and the doctor so informed the leaders of the Whig party, with which he was affiliated. The Whigs favored the Hanoverian succession, and immediately on learning that Anne was near death, began to plan for the realization of their dynastic ambitions.

The regular physicians of the queen did not believe that she was so near death, so when Anne breathed her last in 1714 the supporters of Anne's brother, James, were all unprepared. Anne's Tory ministry was in favor of placing James on the throne, but the Whigs, thanks to Dr. Mead, had already taken such action as to insure the succession of the Elector of Hanover, and in September George I made his triumphant entry into England. Dr. Mead was rewarded by being made physician to the new royal family. Many English historians have attributed large importance to the physician's prognosis in bringing about the succession of the royal house which has ruled England for two centuries.

Dr. Mead was the most progressive, and the wealthiest of the physicians of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, and medical science owes him a great debt. Although he gave his services free to the poor, the clergy and the literary workers, he charged large fees when his patients were possessed of means, and as he was recognized as the foremost medical mind of his time, he received a large income from his practice of $35,000. This was considered a tremendous sum in those days, and many doctors of the present would not need such an income, nor, for that matter, would millions of men in other walks of life. He lived in lavish style, often calling on his patients in a coach and six, and at his town and country mansions he entertained the greatest celebrities of the day.

The experiments conducted by Dr. Mead were many and varied. In his youth he believed that the venom of serpents would prove useful for certain diseases and he risked his life many times in handling deadly snakes. He was largely instrumental in promoting inoculation for the smallpox. Dr. Mead fought several duels, but escaped unharmed and died at the ripe old age of eighty. It is related that in a duel he fought with Mr. Woodward, the latter slipped and fell, and was at Mead's mercy. "Take your life," said the magnanimous Mead. "Anything but your physic," was the prompt response of his fallen opponent. The rival physicians, who had quarreled over a medical question, then shook hands and went away together, firm friends again.

Little Stories of Big Men. "Pitchfork" Ben Tillman. One of the most distinguished and influential members of the United States senate is Benjamin Ryan Tillman, popularly known as "Pitchfork" Ben, who represents South Carolina in the upper house. He is today seventy-one years old and has enough fight left in him for seventy-one years more. He has been a member of the United States senate for twenty-one years, and this is no record. The South Carolina son has long had the reputation of being a "fire-eater," and in spite of his years he is still a two-fisted fighter and a man of action. Tillman has a style of expression that is all his own, and he has opinions on the war that also are all his own. Here are some remarks he made some time ago regarding the Kaiser:
